PRICE: TWO CENTS

Alarm Clock's Last Number For Term On Sale Yesterday

Paper Expanded From Eight Pages to Twelve —
Layout Altered

SOLD AT ENTRANCES

Features Article On Vitre Street Unemployment Refuge

The last issue of The Alarm Clock for this term appeared yesterday morning and was sold at the main entrance to the University. This issue, it is generally conceded, is a distinct improvement on the previous two; the paper has been expanded from eight pages to twelve and the layout altered so as to be more attractive.

The feature article is the report of an investigation into conditions in the Vitre Street refuge for single unemployed men, carried out by three members of the McGill Labour Club. These students not only interviewed several of the officials and the unemployed men, but also actually spent some time eating and sleeping in the Refuge.

Numerous Articles

Other articles include: The Golden Calf and Sound Money, a non-technical treatment of inflation by Fred V. Stone; Stalin and the Financial Post, a fantasy for good Canadian children by a bad bomb-bearing Bolshevik; a first-hand account of the general strike of the local Garment Workers Union; Are We "Yes Men?" by Beatrice Ferneynough; Provincial Rights, by Ewart P. Reid; and a number of shorter articles.

A larger number of copies of this issue have been ordered than in the case of the previous two. The paper is being systematically circulated on all important down-town news-stands, and a large sale is expected because of the local bearing of the feature articles. For the convenience of students, The Alarm Clock is also being sold this morning at the University gates; after this morning it may be purchased at the McGill Sandwich Shop, the Montreal Book Room, the Poole Book Store, Wolfe's News Store on Guy Street, or in Strathcona Hall.

Hundred Copies

Several hundred copies are being sent to sister Labour Clubs in other cities.

Beauty Of Ancient Oracles Illustrated

Slides of Delphi And Olympia
Shown By Dr. Woodhead
at Mechanics' Institute

6-BEAUTY OF ANCIENT

The beauty and importance of the two famous Grecian sites, Delphi and Olympia, were stressed in an illustrated lecture given by Dr. Woodhead of the Department of Classics, at the Mechanics' Institute last night.

The importance of these was due to the fact that they were religious centres and not large cities. They were focuses of Pan-Hellenic feeling. The festivals and games also took place in their vicinity. Dr. Woodhead showed a map outlining the routes to Delphi and described the journey which he made in 1928, during which he visited the explorations made by the Germans and took pictures of all the remains.

Slides were shown of the Treasury of the Athenians and of the Polygonal Wall, of the Temple Site burnt in 548, and of the Stadium at Delphi. Statues of the Dancing Girls and of the Charioteer Group show the beauty and dignity of the figures, the simplicity of the garments and the minuteness of detail, for example the eyes of the charioteer were of white enamel, with onyx inset; the eyelashes were of inserted bronze spikes.

Corner To Speak

Oser Society Will Assemble
At Banquet

The Oser Society will have as its guest of honor, Dr. W. G. Corner, at the banquet this Saturday evening. Dr. Corner, Professor at the University of Rochester School of Medicine, is noted for his work on the Corpus Luteum Hormones. He is well known as a student of Medieval medicine and has established a reputation as a brilliant speaker.

Banquet arrangements have been satisfactorily arranged by the Honorary President, Dr. Beattie, and Robb MacDonald, and it is expected that the Honorary and Charter members of the Society will be present at the meeting. Election of officers will take place after the banquet and speeches.

Centenary Of First Degree To Be Noted

McGill Will Celebrate Event
At Convocation

McGill University will commemorate the hundredth anniversary of the granting of the first degree at the coming annual spring convocation. Official records show that in the spring of 1933, William Logan Lee, graduate in medicine, had the honor of being the first and only graduate of the year.

The faculty of medicine played a notable part in the years following the founding of the University, and there were no other graduates in any other faculty until 1849. Thereafter Arts and Law produced occasional students but medicine continued until the third quarter of the century to be the dominating faculty as far as the number of students were concerned.

Convocation will, this year, be held on May 25, within one day of being one hundred years since the granting of the first degree. University officials plan to acknowledge the debt of gratitude to the pioneers of medical education in Canada for their part in making possible McGill University.

Nominations Called

The nominations must be signed by at least ten members of the Faculty of Engineering and be in the hands of the Secretary, O. K. Ross, before noon on Monday, March 20th.

Elections will be held Thursday, March 23rd.

Percy Davies M. P. Speaks at Alberta Graduates Banquet

CAPTAIN PERCY DAVIES, graduate of '25 and M. P. for Athabasca, Alta., was the guest speaker at the Alumni dinner of the University of Alberta at the Samovar restaurant last night, choosing "Money" for his topic. The dinner was one of the major activities of the Montreal branch of the Alberta Alumni and following the address by Captain Davies, officers for the coming year were chosen.

Government activities, the financial collapse, the banking system, the gold standard, and the numerous remedies put forward by economists and others to alleviate the present depression were outlined by the speaker who maintained that he himself had considerable confidence in the present system of government and finance.

He did, however, discuss what he considered was a very interesting and perhaps sound theory advanced by S. J. Lennox, a Canadian residing in the United States.

Telephone Growth Outlined Yesterday For City Jobless

H. J. Neil, of Bell Telephone Company, Speaker

THE origin, growth, operation and future of communication by means of the telephone was outlined by Mr. H. J. Neil of the Bell Telephone Company in addressing the Unemployed in the Chemistry Building yesterday afternoon. "Voices Across the Sea" was the title of a motion picture showing the manner in which telephone communications may be made between Canada and England by use of radio waves.

The invention of the telephone by Alexander Graham Bell was by no means an accident, Mr. Neil pointed out. Bell, a student of phonetics, acoustics, sound and its transmission, and also an experimenter in electricity had a fundamental training for working out the magical idea of the telephone.

The intricate means by which the transmitter and receiver of a telephone break down words for their passage over the connecting wires and then reconstruct them was described, it being emphasized that an electrical current must be used.

The necessity and function of repeater equipment for the successful transmission of long distance calls; of carrier currents to enable more than one long distance call to be made over the same pair of wires without confusion; and of tele-typewriters which are electrically controlled and thus eliminate the necessity of having operators, was also outlined by the speaker.

The motion picture, depicting the trans-Atlantic telephone service, illustrated the great co-ordination of services necessary to make such calls possible. It was also shown that the voices of the two parties cross the Atlantic over entirely different routes, being transmitted and received at different stations on each side.

Elections Held

Societe Francaise Chooses
Officers For Year

Elections were held yesterday by La Societe Francaise at a meeting held in the R. V. C. and the elections resulted as follows: Honorary President, Madame Henri; President, Lucienne Fontaine; Vice-President, Mary Michaud; Secretary-Treasurer, Simone Gagnon; 4th year Representative, Elspeth Williams; 3rd year Representative, Evelyn Elkin; 2nd year Representative, France Royer.

Professor Lemaitre changed his announced subject, "Grand Grignol," the theatre at which only the most gruesome plays are enacted, and related a story to illustrate the gruesome and fearful nature of the plays instead.

Gift Received

A set of maps of all sections of the province has been presented to the University Department of History by the provincial Department of Land and Forests. Many of them have been completed only recently and contain features not shown on Federal maps.

Debating Union Cups Contested Last Night

Leon Smart Wins Talbot
Papineau Memorial Cup

Juanita de Shields Adjudget
Winner of Reford Cup.

THE Debating Union climaxed another successful season with the annual Prize Night, held in Moyse Hall last night. The Prizes competed for were the Talbot Papineau Cup, the Reford Cup, and the Arts Interclass Debating Shield. These were won by Leon Smart, Juanita de Shields, and the Senior Arts team, composed of Arthur Marshall and Henry Schafhausen, respectively.

The resolution under discussion for the Talbot Papineau Memorial Cup was "Resolved that This is the Most Fortunate Age in Which to Live." Bernard Alexander, former holder of the Cup, and one time President of the Debating Union, opened the discussion as a non-competer, and upheld the affirmative. Physical comforts, and mechanical conveniences have made this age comfortable. The vast experience we gather from the errors of the past makes this a good age in which to live.

Upholds Negative
Harold Lande, in attacking the resolution, claimed that while man has been able to understand the mysteries of heaven and earth, he can see no god, and can find no soul. As a result, man has become conceited. Civilization rests upon the principles of religion which man's conceit have repudiated. The crises throughout the world, he claimed, have been due to a lack of confidence and mutual trust between men.

Leon Smart, in upholding the resolution, claimed that we ought to make a historical survey, and determine whether preceding centuries showed signs of improvement or deterioration. Medicine, science, transportation, and intelligent religion all have improved, along with education and literature. "The most important thing is man, and what he does," he claimed. We are certain that the outburst of 1914-1918 will not be repeated.

Upholds Negative
Melbourne Doig, in upholding the negative, claimed that a superlative could never be used about any age. In regard to the real meaning of life, there are three trends of thought; that man is a seeker after progress; that

Religious Education
Council Holds Tea

Students Interested In
"Leadership in Church Work" Invited

A tea will be held on Sunday afternoon at five o'clock in Strathcona Hall for students interested in leadership in girls' or boys' work in the Churches, by the Religious Education Council of the Province of Quebec.

It has been customary in the past for the Girls' Work Board Secretary to take groups in the S. C. M. on Leadership Training. This year, however, it was decided the more immediate need was to provide an opportunity for students to study and discuss together their religious problems, so Miss Yeomans has been leading a group on the records of the life of Jesus. The tea has been planned in order that the students might get to know the members of the Girls' Work Board and the Religious Education Council.

Miss Nina Yeomans, Secretary of the Girls' Work Board, and Mr. D. T. I. Forsyth, Secretary of the Religious Education Council will speak on Educational Opportunities in the Church. The ladies of the Girls' Work Board will provide the refreshments. There will be no charge, and all interested students are invited.

Dr. Fantham Speaks

Dr. H. B. Fantham, M.A. (Oxford), D. Sc. (London), Strathcona Professor of Zoology at McGill University, will deliver the Graduates' hour Broadcast talk tonight over Station CKAC at 10.30. His subject will be "Biology in Relation to Some Present Day Problems."

It is understood that this Dr. Fantham's first public talk since his arrival in Canada from South Africa.

Philosophical So. Discusses "Idealism Versus Materialism"

Mr. Fulton Addresses Meeting in Strathcona Hall
Last Night

IDEALISM DEFINED

Term Needs to be Properly
And Exactly Defined,
States Speaker

"Idealism versus Materialism" was the subject under discussion at the Philosophical Society meeting held last night in Strathcona Hall. Mr. Fulton of the department of Philosophy, presenting the case for Idealism, gave limited definitions for the two terms. By materialism was to be understood any position opposed to idealism, although not all positions hostile to idealism were materialistic.

Mr. Fulton showed the bewildering multiplicity of doctrines to which the term "idealism" had been applied, giving as examples the systems of Plato and Berkeley. Therefore, the course to pursue was to fix upon one type of idealism as the most important, to state its position briefly and to indicate one of the typical arguments in its defence.

Absolute Idealism

This most important and influential idealistic tendency goes under the title of absolute idealism, or objective idealism, as expounded by Bradley. Bosanquett literally driven on by the unsatisfactorily speculative, and its basic assumption is, that what satisfies intelligence is real, and that which is real satisfies the intelligence. Idealism was said to be: "a pilgrim's progress that starts from the everyday world of experience as we have it, and progresses critically towards a world that satisfies the demands of intelligence to the full."

Intelligence was shown to find itself literally driven on by the unsatisfactory character of experience, to types of experience in which the nature of reality is revealed more and more adequately. The wholly satisfactory experience would be one in which differences are fully developed but reconciled one with another, and reality harmoniously unified.

Primary Contentions

Some of the primary contentions emerging from the applications of the idealist argument were stated, such as: "Nature is neither adjectivally nor substantivally mental in character;" "Ultimate reality is in a sense spiritual;" While defending to the limit the

Montreal Orchestra Holds Last Concert

E. R. Schmitz, French Pianist
Will be Guest Artist
This Sunday

On Sunday afternoon at three o'clock, the Montreal Orchestra will offer the last concert of its present season at His Majesty's Theatre. A special program has been arranged which will include E. Robert Schmitz, pianist, as guest artist, two modern numbers, and the first symphony of Brahms.

Mr. Schmitz is a celebrated figure in the realm of music, being director of one of the largest pianoforte schools in the United States, and also an authority of considerable force in his native land, France. His musical prowess includes orchestral conducting, while his interest in sport is extensive.

Under the direction of Douglas Clarke, the Orchestra will play the following program: 1. Procession, Howells; 2. (a) Concerto in F minor, Bach; (b) Symphonie Variations, Cesar Franck, for pianoforte and orchestra; Robert Schmitz, solo pianoforte; 3. The Walk to the Paradise Garden, Delius; 4. Symphony No. 1 in C minor, Brahms.

Law Society Meets

J. W. Weldon, K.C., Speaks
On "Common Law Jurisdiction"

The Law Society of McGill University, a separate body from the Law Undergraduate Society, held its final meeting of the year in the Union Grill last night. J. W. Weldon, K.C., was the guest speaker, having chosen as his subject, "The Law in Common Law Jurisdiction."

Following Mr. Weldon's address, an informal discussion took place followed by the election of officers at the meeting broke up. The following slate was elected: President, Bill Sprenger; vice-president, Tommy Robertson; secretary, Bill Sellar.

Now is the Time

THROUGHOUT the civilized world, the name of McGill is recognized as a byword for higher learning. Everywhere McGill is respected not only for its clean sportsmanship, freedom of thought, and broadmindedness, but also for its high standards of education and morals.

But the reputation of McGill is made through the activity of the men and women whom she harbors. If these men and women, whether singly or collectively, fail her, the reputation of McGill suffers. The renown for high standards of education in McGill can only be maintained if the students in McGill continue to uphold the standards that have been set by past graduates.

The only way these standards can be retained is by diligent work. The time of the year has now arrived when everyone, whether he has much or little scholastic work to do, is urged by his conscience to buckle down and begin to study.

For, after all, important and beneficial as extra-curricular and social activities are, they are secondary to the primary purpose of a college—intellectual training. Extra-curricular activities are nearly over for the year. An excess of social engagements is now the sole pitfall that lies in the path of the undergraduates. Their lure must be overcome by a firm resolve to work.

Cramming has been roundly condemned in the past, and justly so. But as the exams are still over a month away, advocating intensive study now is by no means making a plea for cramming. In the long run, it is not the mere results of tests that makes a graduate or a student a credit to his university. It is his evidence of education, the manifestation of the knowledge and thought training that college has given to him. Hard and intensive study now will help greatly towards the permanent acquisition of characteristics that are the mark of the educated man.

Catchwords

THERE is a certain type of thinker, if he can be called such, who dismisses questions and problems by emitting a word or two which is supposed to settle the argument. How many times has one heard the epithets "pure communism," "mere dogmatism" and "sheer conservatism" uttered by various men with an air of finality which dismisses the question from further consideration. By answering a perplexing problem in such a manner, an individual shows that he is a shallow thinker who has to fall back on catchwords in order to argue.

A problem that is seriously perplexing cannot be solved by putting a tag on it and dismissing it to a hidden corner of the brain. The use of catchwords implies that certain things are wrong beyond any doubt, and if we can fit the problem to one of these assumed incorrect phrases, we have effectually combated it. The only proper method of solving problems is by adopting an objective view-point, or at least the most objective an individual can get, and carefully weighing both sides of the argument.

There is sufficient good and bad in every suggestion so as to always provide proponents and opponents of it. Nothing is utterly good nor is anything utterly bad and the view-point that an individual takes on a particular problem is largely determined by his temperament, a result of his heredity and environment.

The use of catchwords is very prevalent and extends to popular maxims which are accepted by many without thinking. People come into this world where they find a great many ready-made ideas which have been put forward and whose validity has never been strongly tested, or which have been once true but are no longer so. People accept these without thinking. These catchwords or phrases retard thought and one writhes to hear certain maxims repeated over and over again. Of course these cant stock phrases are a great aid to those whose mental ability is below par but the fact that any intelligent man descends to employ them is regrettable—something that unfortunately is frequently done.

-OF CABBAGES AND KINGS

WHOLESALE APOLOGY

GOODWILL is surging tumultuously in my bosom. Every bang on the typewriter exudes benevolence. For the Daily will shortly enter its annual period of estivation, and never again will these misanthropic spewings pollute the undergraduate mind. As a fitting culmination to a columnistic career I shall hereby apologize individually and separately to every group or person that "Cabbages and Kings" has ever offended.

- (1)—The Players' Club. There is nothing wrong with it anyway. All irrelevant dramatic productions being over, nasty things like scenery painting and deficits need no longer interfere with alleged social intercourse.
- (2)—The student body. This apology is for having given the telephone numbers of the Revue chorus girls.
- (3)—The chorus girls. For having given their telephone numbers to the student body.
- (4)—The Producer. For having forgotten to include his number among those of the chorus girls.
- (5)—All tea-drinkers. For having associated them so often with theological students.
- (6)—The Labor Club; the Political Economy Club; the S.C.A.; the E.C.U.; and the McGill Daily. I have probably never offended any of them, but I wish that I had.

INFORMATIVE-LIKE

NOW that the end of the academic season is imminent, admonitory and valedictory addresses to graduates are probably being sedulously prepared from coast to coast. These addresses will no doubt contain:

- (a)—A hint that we are now in the throes of a great depression.
- (b)—A ditto that courage and honesty are essential for success.
- (c)—Advice to keep our backs to the wall and advance steadily up the straight and narrow path.
- (d)—Advice to marry and settle down and have a child.

Nonetheless, such addresses should really contain:

- (a)—A list of places where beer can be got after 11 p.m.
- (b)—Advice as to whether to domicile oneself at the Vite St. refuge or take a Master's degree and live in Stratheona Hall.
- (c)—A comparative analysis of all bread lines.
- (d)—A brief resume of the libel law.
- (e)—Methods of avoiding getting married, etc.

POETIC LICENTIOUSNESS

AMIDST the welter of elections that are keeping the university agog just now, there is one sadly missing—that for the position of poet laureate of McGill. Of course, H.B. (Arts) year still unknown) is the logical man, but as he does not pay his universal fee he is eligible only for positions on the Revue. There are, however, two other worthy aspirants for the position. So that you may judge their respective merits, I am presenting an example of the poetry of each (without their consent).

This first one is purported to be by R.A.H.
And so you say?
You say?
Say?
SAY!
Your hair has fragrant wisps of charm;
Your cheeks a fragrant flush.
Oh, m—m—may I touch your arm?
I did! I blush!

And here is something that the other candidate—R.M.H. probably wrote:
Inspiration is no virgin. But she has a little brother.

And she has a little father. She has a little mother.
And they all have—
Hair! Nose! Teeth! Eyes!
Mouth! Legs! Feet! Thighs!
Thighs! Mouth! Legs! Feet!
Gosh, the waning moon is sweet!
Still, maybe surreptitiously we could collect seventeen dollars, and make H.B. eligible.

REVOLUTIONARY, HUH?

A MOTION of the utmost importance was passed at the Students' Society meeting on Wednesday. It was to the effect that polls for undergraduate elections be located in the various college buildings. As polls for undergraduate elections have not been held anywhere else for a good many years the immense significance of this motion is readily apparent. In fact the Daily story said, "Baker then presented the motion that the system of polling as practised two days ago should be adopted."

The principle herein involved is an excellent one. The Society should continue the good work, and move the adoption of many other things that we have been doing for several years. We can expect motions of this sort in the future: "That women be permitted the use of the Union;" "That no lectures be given on Sundays, Christmas Day, and Ash Wednesday;" "That a Medical Faculty be established at McGill."

But this can be carried too far. When campus politicians begin advocating the prohibition of things that never were done, we must nip the onrushing wave in the bud with a firm foot.

IN INQUIRING MOOD

AND then, of course, we would like to ask a few questions in the style of "Hush," just to give that final touch of inconclusiveness that is so essential to be final and, what is more, inconclusive. (If you read Daily editorials you will know what that last sentence means. Practice tells).

Who is the collegiate librettist who walks on his hands at public gatherings? And why does he walk on his hands? And, finally, does he walk on his hands? And why does he call himself Ghandalac, the scum?

Did Panphilus, our Music Critic, really get a card from the Radpath Library the other day? I don't know why I am asking these fool questions; I know that he did. And did the card say that he has kept a book called "One Hour With American Music" out for two weeks and two days? And does this prove anything?

Does the German Club still owe money to the Teutonia Club for the recent International Dance? And is this conducive to friendly international relations?

Who was the chorus girl that got taken to the Cabaret? And why is Goospoon sore because the Revue author took a certain—or, as it seems, an uncertain—woman? And is P.J.G. of Players' Club fame, in love, or was he sober? And is it any of my business? Or yours?

THE THEATRES PRESENT

Princess Theatre

THE Canadian premiere of 'Gloria Swanson's latest picture, "Perfect Understanding," will take place tomorrow at the Princess Theatre. "Perfect Understanding" was made entirely in England and concerns an American girl who falls in love with the son of an English earl, but the two are afraid of marriage because of the obvious unhappiness of several of their married friends. Supporting Miss Swanson are Laurence Oliver, John Halliday, Sir Nigel Playfair, Michael Farmer, Genevieve Tobin and Nora Swinburne. Wild animals of the African jungle stalk through "Nagana," the added attraction. The film is said to include some of the most dangerous animal sequences in the history of the screen. It has a highly dramatic story, and Tala Birell, the Viennese beauty, is featured. Others in the cast include Melvyn Douglas, former stage favorite.

Palace Theatre

"THE SECRET OF MADAME BLANCHE," comes to the Palace today, with Irene Dunne in the stellar role. Miss Dunne is cast as an American chorus girl who marries a titled Englishman only to find tragedy at the end of her love affair. A series of engrossing dramatic circumstances befall the girl before she is finally united with the son born of this marriage. Lionel Atwill, plays the father-in-law who refuses to accept Miss Dunne and fights her with court procedure in an effort to seize the child. Short subjects, including a Laurel and Hardy comedy, "Twice Two," "The Voice of the Hardy" showing intimate glimpses of His Holiness the Pope in the Vatican City, and "Mickey's Pal, Pluto" will also be shown.

Capitol Theatre

JIMMY "SCHNOZZLE" DURANTE and Buster Keaton are co-started again in their latest comedy, "What! No Beer?" now at the Capitol. Alternating between excitement and hilarious comedy, the story shows Buster as a taxidermist, and "Schnozzle" as the town barber, but by accident they are involved in the operation of a wholesale brewery and are caught between the fire of two beer-running gangs. The second feature, "The Woman Accused," with Nancy Carroll, Cary Grant and John Halliday, is a story that centers around Glenda O'Brien who, on her wedding eve, is face to face with a murder charge. Short subjects will also be featured.

Loew's Theatre

"THE CRIME OF THE CENTURY," a new-style mystery drama with Jean Hersholt, Stuart Irwin and Wynne Gibson in the leading roles, will be the screen feature at Loew's, starting today. In this story Hersholt, walks into a police station, tells of a murder he has planned. Then he begs to be locked up, so that he cannot go through with it. Police accompany him, but under their very eyes, not only the murder he has planned, but a second take place. A 60-second intermission, during which the various clues are reviewed, is presented to the audience, so that they may attempt to pick the murderer. Charlie Foy, one of the Foy family of funsters, and his cousins, headline the vaudeville bill. Other acts are offered by Brett Wood, "The Harmonica Stylus," Carr Brod, and Betty, in comedy, songs and acrobatics; Petete and Douglas, "The Gobs on Leave," and Sue Hastings' Marionettes.

Cinéma de Paris

"LE FILS DE PAPA" is the feature film at the Cinéma de Paris starting tomorrow. The story is pure comedy and has to do with a wealthy youth, interested in sport, who becomes a professional boxer in order to win the hand of the girl he loves. Leading roles are in the hands of George Laby, Colette Brod, Wanda Greville and Marthe Therminey. "Le Dernier Ocho," the second film feature, is a story of the sea and of a young couple who are tragically separated by the ocean, only to be reunited in the wreck of a great liner. Short subjects will also be shown.

Cinéma Imperial

"LANE DE BURIDAN" is the feature film at the Imperial starting Saturday. The story centres around a young man, wealthy, leisure-loving and of a disposition so placid that he cannot even make a decision on anything. The time comes, however, when he has to get rid of three young women who have been gold-diggers. Lacking the will power to rid himself of them, he decides to flee from them to a place where he will neither see them nor hear of them. There is another girl, however, who is a different type and wants to marry him, as they have been friends since childhood. Having found freedom from the other three women he is now faced with the problem of saving himself from being rushed to the altar by this girl, and around these comedy situations the story is developed. Rene Lefebvre is seen in the leading male role and others in the cast include Mona Goya, Colette Darfeuil, Simone Deguyse and Francine Mussey.

AIRING THEIR VIEWS

The Editor,
Dear Sir:—

We, the undersigned students in good (?) standing, in the Faculty of Engineering, would respectfully plead that a movement be started to remove the unused antedeluvian ventilation system from the Engineering Building, and trade it in for a new Ford, so the boys can get some fresh air.

AN OPEN LETTER

Stratheona Hall,
Sherbrooke St. West,
Montreal.
March 15th, 1933.

The Editor,
McGill Daily,
Dear Sir:—

The following is a resolution as passed by the McGill Labour Club which was sent to various Montreal newspapers.

WHEREAS: Nick Zynchuk was shot and killed under circumstances that reflected unfavourably on the personnel of the Montreal Police Force. WHEREAS: The policemen and plainclothesmen conducted themselves without reason in a disgraceful manner at the funeral of Zynchuk by indiscriminately attacking men, women, and children.

WHEREAS: In spite of the apprehended trouble there was no person of sufficient authority present to control the acts of these policemen.

WHEREAS: By this the Chief of Police showed neglect of duty.

WHEREAS: This is an affront to the City of Montreal and the safety of its citizens.

BE IT RESOLVED: That this club censures the act of the Montreal Police Force and the Chief of Police, and asks that without delay there be a complete investigation into these matters, and that the perpetrators of these outrages be apprehended and punished.

Yours sincerely,
Lloyd G. Reynolds,
President of the McGill Labour Club.

THANKS

The Editor,
McGill Daily,
Montreal.
Dear Sir:—

May I through your columns extend my sincere thanks to those who supported my nomination in yesterday's elections.

Yours truly,
Arthur Marshall.

She claimed that it did not, saying that a sailing ship is no more romantic than a steamer, and that a coach is no more romantic than a lorry. Track Squad Leaves For American Invasion

CinderTeam To Run In Indoor Meet

Boston University Will Play Host to McGill Stars In Hub

COACH VAN WAGNER HOPEFUL OF WIN

Edwards, Hutchins and Drew Outstanding Redmen On Powerful Aggregation

LEADING one of the strongest and most formidable track teams that has graced the Red's athletic roster for some time into American territory to compete against the smart Bostonian outfit, Coach Van Wagner entertains high hopes for his fleet aggregation. The team composed of ten members will leave Montreal this evening. The meet will be held to-

BOSTON TRIP

The following track men are asked to be at the Bonaventure Station at 8.00 p.m. tomorrow evening to enjoin for Boston: Drew, Edwards, Goode, Sampson, Crabtree, Frankton, Worrall, Stote, Nobbs, Hutchins.

tomorrow evening at Boston University.

Headed by the powerful trio of John Hutchins, Charlie Drew, and Phil Edwards, outstanding Olympian, Coach Wagner's men should be able to hold their own with Boston University's best. Hutchins was unfortunate this year in being out of college competition owing to a grievous leg injury that bothered him incessantly during the past season. He has been able to chase his charlie horse and is in the pink of condition for the fray to-morrow night. He should be well up in the hurdles. Charlie Drew holder of the Intercollegiate 120 yard hurdle crown is to run in the 50 yard dash, high jump and 45 yard high hurdles. He should show a fleet pair of heels in his events.

Edwards In Fine Form

Phil Edwards, competitor in two Olympic meets, is set for the 300 and 600 yd. runs. Confidence in his ability to take these two tests in a handy manner is fairly widespread and he should meet with little competition from the Bostonians entered in the events. Besides these two events, the Medical sophomore will also run in the relay. A smart relay team is lined up in the persons of Nobbs, Sampson, Worrall and Edwards. Herb Crabtree, prominent track man, will be in the running for the shorter dashes, competing in the 50 yd. dash with Hutchins and Drew. At the Toronto meet, Crabtree showed plenty of steam and was a point winner at the meet. His fleetness should spell plenty in the way of points at this meet.

Harrier Squad Intact

The Championship Harrier Squad of Charlie Frankton, Jeff Goode, and Ray Stote, will carry the Red colours in the long runs of the meet. The trio will hold up the honours of the McGillmen in the one and three mile runs. The Intercollegiate Harrier Meet held at Kingston proved the mettle of these three runners, and this fine display speaks much for what to expect from them tomorrow.

A detailed list of events to be run off at the meet Saturday night is as follows:

- 40 yds. Dash—Crabtree, Hutchins and Drew.
- 45 yds. High Hurdles—Hutchins, Drew, Worrall.
- High Jump—Drew, Worrall, Hutchins.
- 300 yds.—Nobbs, Sampson, Edwards.
- 600 yds.—Edwards, Sampson.
- 1 Mile—Frankton, Goode, Stote.
- 3 Miles—Frankton, Goode, Stote.
- Shot Put—Hutchins.
- Relay—Nobbs, Sampson, Worrall, Edwards.

City League Cage Squad Plays Last Scheduled Contest

NOW that first place has been decided in the senior City League, N. D. G. having already annexed the title, McGill supporters turn their eyes to the fight which is being waged by their own squad to keep out of the cellar. The Red Seconds are at present in last place, but they have one more opportunity to pull out of the dumps. Tomorrow night they meet Beavers at the latter's home territory, Baron Byng High School. This will be the Redmen's last game of the season, and they are determined to wipe out the defeat which they sustained earlier in the season at the hands of the North End Team.

Chance to Advance

If the Seconds succeed in trouncing the Beavers, they stand a fair chance of finishing the year in a tie for fourth place, providing that their opponents lose their remaining game against Top Notch next week. Most of the trouble which has put the skids under the Red squad lies in the fact that the regular players have great difficulty in turning out for the games, due to pressure of studies.

They have, however, acquitted themselves very well in most of their scheduled encounters, losing some very close decisions to the strong opposition offered by the other City League squads. Several men on this year's team may move up to intercollegiate company next season. Notable among these are Oakland Ross and Jim Wilson.

The nearly completed schedule of the City League follows:

Team	G.P.	W.	L.
N. D. G.	10	9	1
Nationale	10	9	1
Sun Life	9	6	3
Beavers	8	2	6
Top Notch	9	2	7
McGill	9	1	8

DENTISTS PREPARE BASEBALL BRAINS FOR COMING YEAR

A reporter with glazed eyes sneaked into the Dentist baseball camp late yesterday afternoon, after having made a will and kissed his professor good-bye. Bert Pennell received the hardy lad and gave him a few pointers on the squad in general and several disparaging statements on the other interfaculty team, in particular.

The squad, it appears, has numerous American recruits on its roster. (Shades of Andrew Carnegie!) Tomasi, late of Holy Cross, formerly wielded a potent hardball bat at that institution. Guilford played at Loyola, Mahoney at Vermont, Aimi at Norwich and Cournoyer at Boston.

Numerous Holdouts

Other former pellet-chasers expected to turn out shortly are Jerry Lee, eminent pigskin-pusher, Russ Ward, Gil Sherman, Phil Glinick, Skulduggery, Mancuso, Oliff and Hyams. It is rumored that Mancuso is none other than the famed Heinie Mancuso, National League slugger, who is hiding out at college where his former associates will no doubt never think of looking for him.

Business Details

The dental luminaries are planning to make part of their next year's tuition fees during the baseball season. They aim to establish a tooth-pulling clinic on the diamond sidelines, where the loose teeth of opponents and spectators will be extracted for a nominal sum. However, Bert Pennell's embryo Ty Cobbs are not crossing their bridges before they get there.

The squad is at present practicing up on their batting, having purchased some special willows for that purpose. The bats are made in a beautiful tapering shape, with the top some three feet in circumference. The idea is to keep the pitchers from getting their heads swollen with confidence.

The lucky reporter made his glad-escape as Bert stepped aside, glanced with eagle eye at the cuspidor, and knocked it over with one ringing volley.

5.30 for the nominal sum of 15 cents, and for those who wish to improve their style, members of the University Swimming Team have offered to give their services as instructors. This offer is also open to any non-swimmers who wish to learn.

SKIING TRIP

A skiing trip to Piedmont is being organized for Women of the University for Saturday, March 18. The party will leave Windsor station at 8.35 a.m. and will return the same evening. The approximate cost will be $2.50. All the list on the R.V.C. notice board. Those who wish to go will please sign

Sheila Ritchie Repeats This Autumn's Trophy Win, Scoring 21 Points

JOYCE LEWIS SECOND IN INDIVIDUAL COUNT

M.S.P.E. '34 Mermaids In Overwhelming Triumph Over Opponents

SHEILA RITCHIE, M. S. P. E., '34 bettered the former 19-15 second record for the 25 yard back crawl by 1-1-5 seconds at the M.W.S.A.A. aquatic meet yesterday when she recaptured the cup which she won last fall. M. S. P. E. '34 won the inter-class relay and ran away with the highest class aggregate, defeating the runners-up, R. V. C. '36, by 35 points.

Besides breaking one record, Sheila Ritchie led in three other events, piling up the highest individual honors and adding twenty-one points to her class score. Joyce Lewis, also a physical-ed junior, placed second with 11 points. Sheila Ritchie failed to better her twenty-five yard free style time but came close to it when she splashed her way to victory in 13 4/5 seconds. Edwidge Perreault and Janet Clouston tied for third place laurels.

Diving Popular

The diving events proved most popular when the co-eds plunged their way through back jack-knives, one and a half forward somersaults, running jack-knives, hand stands, and swan dives. As in most of the other events, M. S. P. E. '34 annexed the three first places, won by Sheila Ritchie, Phyllis Jackson and Beryl French. M. S. P. E. '34 was represented by Sheila Ritchie, Joyce Lewis, Phyllis Jackson and Dot Lee, who flew their class colours in victory in 15 4/5 seconds in the class relay race. Each mermaid did one length of either breast, side, crawl or back stroke.

Commerce Defeats Arts In Interfaculty Basketball Struggle

IN THE opening game of the newly formed Interfaculty Basketball League, Commerce trimmed Arts 19-12 to start off on the right foot—for Commerce. Conklin starred for the Businessmen, turning in a fine performance along with the rest of his team-mates. For the defeated Artists, Levites was outstanding, although, his sparkling work went for naught.

Commerce had the edge of the play throughout, and their steady defensive play stood them in good stead against the attacks of the sniping Moyse Hallians. Laird Watt and Bill Grindley played a fine game on the forward line for the winners, while the Arts squad missed the usual brilliant play of Willie Woo, stellar wingman.

Commerce Offensive

Commerce started their attack right from the opening whistle, and they played, for the most part, a tight, defensive game, with the forwards staying back as much as possible.

The half-time score was 9-4—for Commerce, and they increased their lead in the second half, playing the same type of basketball as they did in the first period, to bring the final count to 19-12.

The line-up:

Commerce (19)	ARTS (12)
Watt	Levites
Conklin	Servier
Grindley	Winkler
McMoran	Brenhouse
McLernon	Snelgrove
Markham	Ashkanazy
Lee	Mowatt

French Play "Noe" Will Be Presented

Montreal Repertory Theatre To Stage Obey's Work

DRAMATIC VERSION

"Noe," a French play by Andre Obey, will be presented by the Montreal Repertory Theatre, on March 21st, 22nd, and 23rd, at the Salle Academique of the College Sainte-Marie on Bleury Street. "Noe" is a dramatic version of the well-known biblical story; a modern picture of Noah, and the Ark, and the Rainbow.

The character of the play, however, is not modern. The simple faith of Noah, and his unconscious heroism is the dominant theme. Noah himself is represented as an ordinary labourer, who might just have left his plow. He talks with God in the language of a French workman, and repeats God's words in a completely natural way.

Obey's Latest Drama

"Noe" is Andre Obey's latest drama. It made its debut with the famous "Compagnie des Quinze" at the "Theatre de Vieux Colombier," Paris, in the beginning of 1931, and was subsequently brought to London, where it fascinated crowded houses for months. The Play was then taken to Belgium and Switzerland, where its success was repeated.

The Cast

The cast of the M. R. T. production of "Noe" is as follows:

Personages
Noe Honore David
Mme. Noe Yvette Gouin
Sem Georges Bouvier
Cham Ferdinand Blondi
Japhet Guy Fillion-Payoux
Noema Olivette Thibault
Ada Yvette DeLorier
Sella Laurette Fournier
L'homme Sauvage Bernard Hoque
Les Animaux
Le Lion Dick Porteous
L'Ours Arthur Carveth
La Vache Jacqueline Todd
L'agneau Therese Gouin
Le Singe Lomer Gouin
The settings have been designed by Andre Bieler and the costumes by John Lyman. The production is directed by Martha Allan.

Freshmen To Gather On Wednesday Night

"Theatre Night" will again come in to being this year when the Freshman class assemble at His Majesty's Theatre next Wednesday evening to see the Broadway hit "As Husbands Go." Reduced prices have been obtained for the occasion and the Arts and Commerce first years are combining in an attempt to popularize what was once an outstanding McGill event.

Following the Theatre Performance the Freshmen will adjourn to some nearby restaurant where the evening's gaieties will be rounded off in an informal fashion. Tickets for the theatre are selling at 75 cents and this sum is sufficient to obtain the best orchestra seats. These tickets are obtainable from any of the executive of Arts '36 or Commerce '36 or from Bill Gentleman.

Those interested are asked to respond to the appeal for cooperation and to obtain their tickets in the near future.

What A Rhodes Scholarship Offers Canadian Student

The method of election is as follows. There are committees of selection in each of the provinces; these committees meet annually. They are made up, for the most part, of old Oxonians; often the chairmanship of the Committee of Election is held by some distinguished man who is not an Oxonian. In the Province of Quebec the committee has been fortunate enough to be headed for a number of years by Mr. E. W. Beattie.

The best time for applications to be made for the scholarship is at the end of the second year of College or University work and between then and the time of graduation. A candidate must be between the ages of 19 and 25. The policy of the Trust at present is to advise men to come up well before the age of 23. In the past there was a conception that to be successful in a Rhodes Scholarship competition one must excel in sport; in scholarship and in moral and social qualities. But the Jack of all trades is apt to be master of none, and the Secretary of the Rhodes Trust, Lord Lothian, has recently requested the committees of selection to "be careful to give the qualities of intellect and character the paramount importance which Mr. Rhodes directed." The committees are specially warned against passing over a candidate who shows essential distinction in favor of one who possesses an undistinguished uniformity of all round qualities, without particular excellence in the more important ones. Such a policy leads inevitably to mediocrity. Distinction of intellect and personality is the primary qualification for a Rhodes Scholarship. He continues "Mr. Rhodes evidently regarded leadership as consisting in moral courage and public spirit as much as a more aggressive quality." Judicious resistance against ill-founded undergraduates' opinion, for instance, will give truer evidence for leadership than success in interpreting or expressing it. Further, in a private letter, Mr. Rhodes made it clear that he was more concerned that his scholars should be moderately fond of field sports, than that they should attain success in athletics, in the sense of winning a University letter or Blue. The report of Lord Lothian concludes that in the opinion of the Trustees the performance of Rhodes Scholars both at Oxford and in after life, taken as a whole, is satisfactory and up to date, justifies the faith of Cecil Rhodes.

In a great majority of cases Rhodes Scholars are making a success of their lives and are beginning to exercise that influence in their own communities, which Mr. Rhodes hoped would be the case. At the same time, he points out, that it is clear that a percentage of those who have been elected as Rhodes Scholars have not been up to the minimum standard which Mr. Rhodes had in view and have failed to take advantage of the opportunity given to them, either at Oxford or in after life.

It is to be hoped that in Canada students may come to look forward early to the possibility of applying for this scholarship, and whether they intend to become teachers, lawyers, doctors or business men; whether they be of French or English extraction; whether they live in the country or the city—it is a prize worth having. It will help them to do a good job, to gain insight into the problems of their own country.

Co-ed Runs Amok

Winnipeg, Man. — Should co-eds drive cars? Or should women, for that matter, drive cars? Perhaps this incident, seen on the campus, will answer the question.

A nice car was parked in front of the Science building—two nice cars. In fact, before one of them was moved a co-ed entered one of them, stepped on the starter, went into reverse, forgot to look around, and took an extra fender with her. She looked up and down, crossed the street, and "smuck" off before any of the more law-abiding students could get her license number. She even had a smirk on her face, the reckless thing. There oughta be a law.

partment of Philosophy, will be continued today at five, in Room 44, Arts Building, McGill University. In the original announcement of the lectures this date was omitted. The subject of the lecture this week is Education and Moral Philosophy. The public is invited.

S. C. M. Officers Elected At Gathering Last Night

well-known figures in this city. Among them were Sir Arthur Currie, Rev. R. K. Naylor and Mrs. Naylor, the former of the Diocesan College.

Two Addresses

Miss Rutherford, who is Secretary of the National Movement, was the first speaker. Speaking on what the meaning of the S.C.M. can be, she reviewed the activities of several prominent S.C.M.'ers, with whom she has come in contact and showed what has been their driving force—the conviction in the aim of the Movement and that trying to put Christ on the Campuses is a worthwhile life.

Dean Carrington, discussing the need of the S.C.M. in the University went into the various movements and trends of the Christian Church since the war and showed how most of them wandered away from the main issue at stake, namely religion with a real God at its centre. The speaker expressed his opinion that the church has not failed but that it is now turning away from the many side-tracks and diversions into which it had drifted and was concentrating upon the fundamental facts of a 100% religion which works.

He suggested that the S.C.M. follow similar tactics; he warned those guiding the Movement of falling into side-issues which are not important and of becoming so buried in psychology and economics and sociology that the real purpose is clouded over and religion is forgotten.

After the meeting, two reels taken at Elgin House, the National Conference of the Movement held every fall, were shown.

British Member Of Parliament Lectures

Speech on Socialism To Take Place at Forum

This Sunday evening, the Right Honorable H. B. Lees-Smith will be the guest speaker at the People's Forum, choosing as his subject, "Will England Go Socialist?" The Right Honorable Lees-Smith has been a distinguished Member of the British Parliament, having held the important portfolios of Minister of Education and Post-master-General in the Labor Cabinet of J. Ramsay MacDonald.

He was born in India, the son of an Army Officer, and educated at Oxford. He continued his studies and later won the degree of Doctor of Science. He has been elected a Member of the Royal Statistical Society. During the World War, he served as a private soldier, refusing all offers of promotion.

His reputation as a brilliant platform speaker has been well deserved, for the Right Honorable Lees-Smith is not only a soldier and scientist, but also an author, educationist, economist, and statesman.
